Rules

Card instructions may override these rules.

1. Players may not have more than 10 Reputation Tokens at any time
2. If a player has zero Reputation Tokens, they immediately return to Prison and lose any Employment cards
3. All players must choose in Scenario and Violation events and follow the applicable instructions after resolution
4. Players may only have one Employment card in play at a time
5. Moving as the result of a Scenario or Violation card does not trigger a new event
6. Be the first player to reach Reintegration to win!

Setting Up the Game

Each player puts their character token on the first space outside of Prison.

Each player collects 10 Reputation Tokens

Each player rolls a six-sided die. The player with the highest result starts. Play will continue clockwise starting with this player.

On Your Turn

Roll a six-sided die and move that number of spaces toward the end goal. If there are multiple paths, you can choose which to take.

Draw a card from the deck that matches the space you landed on. If the space is blank, your turn is complete.

See below for how each card type is played.

Employment

Employment cards give you abilities that can change how you respond to other cards. Keep these in front of you.

If you already have an Employment card, you must discard it before accepting a different one.

Scenarios and Violations

Scenarios and Violations present players with options that can either help or hinder. When a Scenario or Violation card is drawn, place it face up so it is visible to all players. All players must choose an option, regardless of who drew the card.

Using your Choice Token, anonymously choose from the two options. Do not discuss this choice with your fellow players. After all choices are made, players reveal their choice and follow the instruction that matches.

Reputation and Going to Prison

If, at any time, a player is reduced to zero Reputation Tokens, they must immediately move to the starting position and discard any Employment cards. They regain 10 Reputation Tokens before their next turn.

Winning the Game

The first player to reach Reintegration is the winner!
